

Special Admission for the Transnational Doctoral Programs for Leading Professionals in Asian Countries
Department of International Development and Cooperation,
Graduate School of International Development (GSID), Nagoya University
(October 2022 Enrollment)

I. Outline

1. Objectives

The Transnational Doctoral Programs for Leading Professionals in Asian Countries aim to offer doctoral degrees to senior officials of governments or individuals serving in equivalent leading positions of Asian countries who already possess a master's degree and wish to continue their studies by providing a quality education program that combines teaching at Nagoya University Asian Satellite Campuses conducted in collaboration with Nagoya University's main campus, and short-term intensive academic activities at the main campus in Japan, enabling students to continue their career in the current posts while deepening their knowledge and experience.

2. Eligible Applicants and Countries

Eligible Applicants: senior officials of governments, faculty members of universities, senior staff of international organizations or individuals serving in equivalent leading positions in the countries below

Eligible Countries: Cambodia and the Philippines

3. Host Institution

Graduate School of International Development, Nagoya University

4. Admission Openings

Up to two from each country

5. Details of Curriculum

(1) Basic Concepts

The curriculum is suitable for nurturing national leaders in various fields, providing day-to-day remote research guidance through active use of Information and Communications Technology (ICT), fixed learning (schooling) periods of intensive lectures, seminars and research guidance and thesis writing guidance on Nagoya University's main campuses in Japan, and research guidance at the Nagoya University Asian Satellite Campuses in their respective countries.

(2) Program Duration / Degrees

In principle, the duration of the program is three years. Those who obtain the necessary credits and pass the dissertation examination will be granted a Ph.D. in International Development.

(3) Language

Lectures, practice and other guidance will be conducted in English.

6. Filing Period

February 7, 2022 (Monday) — March 25, 2022 (Friday).

Applications MUST arrive at GSID Administrative Office or GSID-ASC (Asian Satellite Campus) Committee no later than March 25, 2022 as indicated in III-1 of this document.

7. Commencement of the Program

October 2022

II. Application Guidelines

In order to provide opportunities to deepen and systematize their knowledge for persons who hold master's degrees in international development or related fields and work for governments or core national institutions involved in policy making, the Department of International Development and Cooperation of the Graduate School of International Development (GSID), Nagoya University, offers a special selection option for enrollment in the doctoral program. This is also extended to individuals who hold master's degrees in international development or related fields and work for an organization which conducts international development- or cooperation-focused activities.

1. Fields of Study

Economic Development Policy and Management, Peace and Governance, Education and Human Resource Development, Inclusive Society and State, Poverty and Social Policy

2. Eligibility Requirements

Persons who meet all of the following conditions:

(1) Persons who have been awarded a master's degree or professional degree by a Nagoya University graduate school or a graduate school of another university.

*In the case that the applicant's Master's thesis is not written in English or Japanese or the applicant is awarded or will be awarded a master's degree without submission of a Master's thesis, the applicant must undergo eligibility screening (See 5. Eligibility Screening).

(2) Persons who are currently employed (excluding those currently on leave) at a government or core national institution involved in policy making, or at an organization which conducts international development- or cooperation-focused activities, with three or more years of work experience in total in such institutions or organizations.

(3) Persons who possess a letter of recommendation from their employer or director of an affiliated institution or organization.

3. Scholarships (Schooling)

This program offers learning support as detailed in (1), (2), and (3) below for the fixed learning (schooling) periods on Nagoya University's main campus in Japan.

(1) Scholarship (expenses during stay)

The scholarship will be paid based on the Scholarship Payment Guidelines for the Transnational Doctoral Programs for Leading Professionals in Asian Countries.

(2) Scholarship (travel expenses)

Nagoya University will provide an economy-class airplane ticket (return) from the international airport nearest the student's home address to Central Japan International Airport for students visiting Japan to take part in schooling.

(3) Accommodation for the duration of each intensive supervision seminar in Japan will be provided for the student (Utilities shall be paid by the student).

(Note) A scholarship will be terminated if grantees fall under one of the following circumstances:

- (i) If it becomes definitive that the grantee will not be able to complete his/her program within the standard duration of studies because of his/her poor academic achievement or suspension.
- (ii) If he/she is provided with another scholarship (except scholarships designated for research expenses).
- (iii) If he/she is enrolled in another PhD course of other institutions.
- (iv) If a request is received from the government and/or other state institution of the grantee's home country.

In addition, grantees who continue to receive stipends despite one of the mentioned conditions may be required to return the money received during the period in question.

4. Tuition Fees and Other Matters

This program does not request students to pay application fees, admission fees and tuition fees for the standard duration of the program.

Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) long-term traineeship “International Doctor Degree Program for Leading Professionals”

1. Objective

The International Doctor Degree Program for Leading Professionals is designed to foster leading professionals in developing countries who have strong ties with Japan, and strengthen long-term relationships between Japan and these participating countries, through fostering senior officials of governments and individuals serving in equivalent leading positions in these developing countries. Trainees are expected to contribute to the development of their home countries. Through JICA's support of the human resources development activities of Nagoya University, JICA engages in the selection of eligible trainees and strives to achieve effective development outcomes.

2. Basic framework

JICA agrees to bear expenses associated with the International Doctor Degree Program for Leading Professionals, such as cost of schooling for research guidance, student participation fees for study trips, conference fees, for eligible JICA trainees selected from successful applicants of the Asian Satellite Campuses Program. Upon completion of the program, and at the time of doctorate degrees are awarded by Nagoya University, a certificate in the JICA president's name will also be awarded.

3. Eligible candidates for JICA trainees

Candidates who are professionals in government positions, legal professionals, university faculty members or researchers in developing countries must be enrolled or plan to be enrolled in a doctoral program at Nagoya University while continuing to work full time in their current posts. JICA selects trainees for financial support in consultation with participating country authorities.
